The NBV Business Assist Programme

Running your own business can sometimes be a lonely occupation: you carry sole responsibility and are expected to make decisions in areas that are often completely outside your experience.

Would it be helpful to have access to an impartial, experienced business person to act as a sounding board, providing focussed and objective assistance? NBV's Business Advisers have extensive knowledge of the issues that face small and medium sized businesses in the East Midlands. They have access to high quality information, resources and training to support business growth and sustainability.
